We are not directly involved in selling insurance, our only interest in encouraging you to insure your pet is to ensure that we never have to compromise the quality of our veterinary care on the basis of cost. Many of our clients already enjoy the peace of mind provided by pet health insurance. We see it as the future of quality veterinary care.

Puppy and kitten insurance

Some puppies and kittens, when purchased, have a limited period of insurance cover as arranged by the breeder. However if this isn't the case we will arrange 4 weeks FREE cover with pet plan to correspond with the start of the vaccination course.

years, become able to diagnose a few years ago with often fatal consequences, especially in the older pet. The downside of these advances is cost. This is why we recommend Pet Health Insurance, because it allows us to do the best for your pet without you worrying about the treatment costs.

What animals can be insured?

It isn't just valuable pedigree animals that are insured, most policies are for ordinary dogs and cats and other popular pets such as rabbits.

What costs are covered by pet insurance?

Typically, a policy will pay for the costs of veterinary treatment for illness or accident, reimbursement of the purchase price of your pet following loss or death of your pet, recovery costs of your pet if lost and cover for dogs against third party claims. (For instance if your dog causes an accident.)

Which insurance company should I use?

When choosing an insurance company, there are a few points to bear in mind:

- Be careful to check that the amount of veterinary fee cover is adequate, over time a single illness can cost many hundreds of pounds.
- Check that there is no limit on how long you can claim for each illness. You do not want a "capped" policy as chronic conditions can go on for life, not just 12 or 24 months.
- Check that your pet will still be covered in later years when he or she needs it most and that the premiums will still represent good value.
- Some insurers offer special discounts, pensioners and pet owners with several pets can make big savings.

What isn't covered by pet insurance?

- Neutering and routine treatments such as worming and flea treatment.
- Some policies will cover vaccination (e.g. pinnacle insurance) but most don't.
- Pre-existing conditions.
